ZEPPELINS IN NEW ROLE

Aircraft Patrol North Sea Watching For Food Laden Ships Bound For England—One Vessel Halted and Searched.

Dieppe, France, via Paris, Feb. 19.—A German submarine torpedoed a French steamer, without warning, this morning, without warning, the French steamer Dinorah, from Havre to Dunkirk, at a point seventeen miles off Dieppe. The Dinorah did not sink, but was towed into Dieppe. No mention is made of the loss of any of the crew.

A plate on the port side of the steamer Dinorah, which sailed from Havre on Feb. 18, was sighted by the Dinorah managed to keep afloat by hard pumping. Word of the occurrence was taken into Dieppe by the British navy, and assistance for the Dinorah was promptly sent out. She was towed into port and her cargo will be discharged here.

The presence of a German submarine in the North Sea, which was reported four days ago, has been confirmed by the British navy, and it is believed that the German blockade rule is being enforced.

Norwegian Ship Sunk.

Liverpool, Feb. 19.—The Norwegian tank steamer Berge, which sailed from New Orleans Jan. 28, and New York Feb. 5, for Amsterdam, struck a mine off Dover. The vessel was slightly damaged by the explosion, and she probably will finish her voyage to the Dutch port.

No Submarines Sighted.

London, Feb. 19.—So far as is known to the present time not a single German submarine was sighted during the first twenty-four hours of the German blockade of the British Isles, but there is increasing signs that Germany is bending every effort to enforce her blockade rule.

These are found in the sudden activity of Zeppelin airships in the North Sea, involving the loss of two such vessels, together with reports that they are continuing to patrol the North Sea, and that they are not withstanding the rigor of the weather.

Added to this is the visit of Emperor William and Admiral Von Trippl to the North Sea, where the emperor said they hope to give impetus to the machinery designed to clear the waters surrounding the United Kingdom of all merchant shipping.

Zeppelin airships, presumably are watching for food laden drafts moving toward England. The halting of the Dutch steamer Helena by Zeppelins hovering over her, and the giving of a new role to the dirigible aircraft, which so far during this war have done little on land or sea to justify their maintenance.

The German navy, the United States is still occupying the attention of the British, Dutch and Scandinavian newspapers, while the German newspapers continue to assert that the German navy is not in a position to face her sea blockade regardless of the consequences.

For several days past the fighting in the western arena of the war has been judged from the reports reaching here to have been in favor of the allies. The Germans have been counter attacking violently, but they appear to have had heavy losses. The pressure of the allies has not doubt been increasing, and the Germans busy during developments in the east and to prevent the withdrawing of forces for the relief of the eastern line, as was done in December.

Weather Hinders Shipping.

Rotterdam, Feb. 19.—The stagnation in shipping at Rotterdam yesterday seems to have been due to the weather, rather than to the German declaration of the war zone. The shipping today was quite normal. Of fourteen incoming vessels six were British and six steamers which departed for all British ports.

Washington, Feb. 19.—All travel between England and the continent of Europe has been suspended by British admiralty until further notice, according to advice received today at the state department.

Holland Protest Unanswered.

The Hague, via London, Feb. 19.—The critical situation brought about by the German naval demonstration which it was announced would be in force today has been improved governmental circle here. A reply to the Dutch protest against the proposed submarine blockade has not been received, but is expected momentarily.

Considerable troop movements are reported along the German frontier facing Germany, but information regarding them is closely guarded. The water defenses are understood to be ready for any emergency.

Fight Against Starvation.

Amsterdam, via London, Feb. 19.—A dispatch received here from Berlin quotes the Vossische Zeitung as follows: "The new German measures at sea are directed against two of the allies of Great Britain. One is the American trade in arms, and the other is starvation. We shall make the struggle with starvation in the firm consciousness that we will pull through even if not one single grain of wheat reaches us. Great Britain as a result of our blockade must experience severe damages."

War News Summary

Germany has struck the first blow since her war zone decree went into effect. A French steamer was torpedoed in the English channel by a German submarine. She was able to reach port, although badly damaged. Berlin newspapers, commenting on the German reply to the American note, reflect the feeling that there must be a departure from the position Germany has taken. The influential Lokal Anzeiger says that "we Germans have resolved to fight without regard for the consequences." The second of the weekly "re-ports from the front" speaks of severe fighting near Ypres. On the western end of the battle line, German attacks gained possession of several British trenches, but, however, were won back subsequently.

The Austrian troops are reported to be continuing their victorious advance through Bukovina, rolling back the extreme eastern end of the Russian line. A London dispatch says that the Russians have now evacuated all of Bukovina. Official reports from Petrograd and Vienna speak of encounters of great severity in the Carpathians, but apparently no decision is near.

In northern Poland the Russians are making desperate efforts to stay the advance of the German army, which drove them out of East Prussia, and the fighting now in progress is described by the Petrograd war office as "reaching the climax of stubbornness."

The German war office in today's communication asserts that substantial progress has been made in the invasion of northern Russia, along the German border following the expulsion of the Russian army from East Prussia. The Germans are said to have captured Tauraghen, in the province of Kovno, as well as several villages in the Lithuanian border.

In central Poland, along the Warsaw front, the situation is unchanged. The attacks of the allies in the west, supposedly to prevent the German advance, have been unsuccessful. In Russia has led to several engagements at several points in Belgium and France. The German war office admits that the French were temporarily successful in the battle near Verdun, but says that later they were driven back.

ened with starvation. A people which must fight for its existence and which in this fight for its life must push aside all consideration for a third party. Consideration for the welfare of the world has been eliminated. The fight we enter upon Feb. 18 must be fought with all recklessness or not at all, and we Germans have resolved to fight without regard for the consequences."

See Germany In Despair.

Paris, Feb. 19.—Despair plainly inspired Germany's reply to the United States' protest against the submarine blockade. In the opinion of writers in all sections of the French press, who fill columns with ironical comments. The tone of the document they consider moderate enough, but decidedly in the reasoning preposterous and its meaning plainly defiant.

The Matin says the reply in substance ignores the American warning and the Berlin government practically refuses to give the assurances asked.

Georges Clemenceau expresses the belief that terror of famine has driven Germany to the worst extremity. He argues that Berlin would wisely to ponder the military power, enormous industrial resources and indomitable courage of the United States.

Wireless Report.

Berlin, wireless, Feb. 19.—Included in the news given today by the Over-Sea news agency is the following: "Constantinople reports that the Greek government on representations made to it has agreed to prevent the movement of Russian ammunition by way of Saloniki."

"Amsterdam reports that the boat service from Rotterdam and Flushing to London has been discontinued. Dutch ship owners have asked that the Netherlands government exclude for the period of one year from Dutch ports all British steamers, which during these days fly neutral flags. Dutch steamers bound for America are to sail around Scotland."

Admiralty Suspends Travel.

Washington, Feb. 19.—All travel between England and the continent of Europe has been suspended by British admiralty until further notice, according to advice received today at the state department.

BLANCO TO ARRIVE IN U. S. SATURDAY

Philips and Powell Will Meet Minister from Uruguay, Who Will Attend San Francisco Exposition.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Wm. Phillips, third assistant secretary of state, and Capt. Powell Clayton, Jr., of the army general staff, will meet the minister from Uruguay, who will arrive in New York tomorrow to welcome in President Wilson's name, Dr. Juan Carlos Blanco, minister of public works of Uruguay, who comes to return the visit of Secretary Root in 1906 and to represent his country at the San Francisco exposition.

CABINET OPTIMISTIC ON WAR ZONE RULES AND MARINE CARGOES

Session Held Today Said to Have Shown Little Fear of Germans Sinking U. S. Ships.

Washington, Feb. 19.—After a cabinet meeting today it was said it was considered that the situation was not at all threatening, and that the administration had no fear that any American ship would be sunk.

The suggestion of Germany in the latest note to the United States that means be found for identifying and safeguarding American ships venturing into the war zone was understood to have been taken. Some state department officials interpreted the suspension of travel as referring to passengers until there should be no more rearrangement of ship schedules with protection of convoys, but other officials thought it might temporarily include all commercial intercourse across the English channel, under the supervision of the British admiralty, possibly by effect transatlantic traffic considerable, though the lack of definite information as to England's retaliatory measures against the German submarine campaign, rendered it difficult for officials to forecast what the exact result of the order would be.

GIVE IN TO ENGLAND OR PREPARE FOR WAR

Representative Bartholdt of Missouri Makes Farewell Speech Today. Denounces Newspaper War.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Representative Bartholdt of Missouri, made his farewell speech in the house today, denouncing "the newspaper war against Germany." He declared that "in our country, the demand for war with all other true Americans first, last and always, and protested against the American shipment of arms to the allies. "In our country," he said, "our only alternative is either to give in or to declare war. The threat of an embargo on arms, however, would quickly bring the mistress of the seas to terms without war."

Portraying the "steadfast devotion of citizens of German blood to American flag and the flag," Mr. Bartholdt declared: "If unfortunately the United States ever again should be embroiled in war, the heavens forbid, the Germans of this country would assist loyally rally round the stars and stripes. The Germans of this country are for America against England, for America against Germany, for America against the world, they never waver in their allegiance to their adopted land."

Mr. Bartholdt said that Americans of German descent have been accused of divided allegiance and downright disloyalty and that while they know that "this wanton insult constituted from British and French press agents and they treat it with contempt, they resent that in the face of our own history the American press should have opened its columns to such calumnies."

"The war," he said, "was started with a monstrous lie and to support it a thousand other lies had to be told. The Germans were denounced as rascals and plunderers and worse. The struggle is a warfare of falsehood against truth."

ARREST SIXTEEN IN GOTHAM RIOT TODAY

Fifth Avenue Is Scene of Fight Between Tailors and Men Seeking to Take Their Jobs.

New York, Feb. 19.—Sixteen men were arrested today in a riot on Fifth avenue, almost directly in front of St. Patrick's cathedral. Traffic was halted for several blocks for a quarter of an hour while two hundred men fought in the street. Police officers served charges with the crowd with patrolmen's clubs, and after a hard battle, dispersed the rioters. The police asserted that the fight was between a group of men who were seeking employment, and men who sought to take their places.

DISAGREEMENT ENDS IN DEATH OF WIFE

AUTHOR OF NEW SHIPPING BILL

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Mrs. Augusta Johnson and her husband, Harry Johnson, disagreed and quarreled because she liked to go to parties and he did not. They agreed to separate and today he was to have gone to Bloomington, Ill., where his mother is said to be dying. The night before, however, she heard shots today and when the police broke into the Johnson flat they found Mrs. Johnson dead with two bullet holes in her head, and Johnson with a bullet in his side and a threat to lay unconscious beside her. It is expected the injuries are fatal.

DAVENPORT COUNCIL OPPOSES MULCT LAW

Davenport, Ia., Feb. 19.—The Davenport city council last night vetoed the bill repealing the Mulct law because it will increase taxes. Mayor A. C. Mueller was sent to Des Moines to present the resolution in person.

SWAT THE ROOSTER CAMPAIGN IN IOWA.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 19.—Iowa's legislature is considering a bill to create a state poultry department. Poultry men assert Iowa hens produced 100,000,000 eggs last year, an average of 72 per hen, and took three months vacation too. Carl Barrah told the house agricultural committee that 17 per cent of the egg yield is wasted in marketing through improper handling, most of which loss falls on the farmer. A campaign to "swat the rooster" thus secure an untimely egg for cold storage in May and June for delivery to consumers in the winter months is proposed.

BILL TO WIPE OUT PERSONALTY TAX IS URGED BY TOMKINS

Ashland Senator Fathers Pet Scheme of State Tax Commission in the Legislature.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 19.—In defense of his bill abolishing the tax on personal property, which follows the recommendation of the state tax commission, Senator A. Pearce Tomkins of Ashland declared that it will act to relieve manufacturing and similar enterprises from unsatisfactory tax burdens and that the personal tax works inequally all around. Senator Tomkins explained his bill today in the following statement: "This bill provides for the exemption from taxation of practically all classes of personal property. Bank deposits, savings banks, life insurance, and other financial interests, as a method of taxing banks and other financial interests, is unchanged. The taxation of public utilities is unchanged. And an increase in automobile fees is provided sufficient to cover the cost of the tax and the amount now paid by automobiles under the personal property tax."

"Increases Income Rates. As some changes have to be made to fill the gap left by the abolition of personal property taxation, the income tax rates are increased and the share which the state receives from the tax is reduced from ten to five per cent. The increase in the income tax rates is not particularly heavy. The state would also give to the counties, under this bill, some of the revenue which it has hitherto taken from the street railway taxes. The increase in the automobile fees, and the increase in the income tax due to the raising of the rates and the abolition of the personality tax, together with the other changes noted, would probably make it practicable to get along with a simple tax system covering real estate, bank stock, public utilities and incomes."

"Personal property has ceased to be an important element of the assessment in rural districts. In the country, therefore, little change would be effected by the abolition of the personal property tax as it now stands. In the cities the income tax would carry the burden hitherto borne by personal property. This change would extend and simplify the work of the local assessors. It is practically impossible to assess accurately and equitably such personal property as merchants' and manufacturers' stock, moving machinery, wagons, carriages, and sleighs."

"The authorities are almost unanimous in the belief that the taxation of personal property is a difficult, and almost always inequitable. The amount of personal property which a business concern happens to have in its possession is no index of the taxpayer's ability to pay. Coal companies, for instance, as a rule have very little coal on hand. The assessment is made on the basis of the stock of the mines and elevators at the head of the lakes are likely to have a very large stock of grain; paper and pulp companies large quantities of their products, and lumber companies a stock of saw logs and manufactured materials on assessment day; and in such cases their taxes are all out of proportion to the profits of the business. Merchants who turn over their stock very slowly, such as drug stores, pay personal property taxes out of proportion to other merchants who turn over their stock more rapidly. Large jewelry concerns, for example, because theirs is a Christmas business, and their largest stock is on hand at that time. Moreover, the merchant or manufacturer must pay on his property just as much in a bad year as he pays in a good year when profits are large."

"That element in the tax system which the personal property tax attempts to fulfill or satisfy is satisfied very much more accurately and equitably by the income tax. Why, therefore, continue the personal property tax? Its abolition would free commercial enterprises, particularly when they are just organized, and in years of depression they run at a loss."

"Never since and before the passage of the income tax, our own tax commission and all recognized authorities have argued that it should take the place of personal property taxation."

STRIVE TO LOCATE MISS RUTH SOPER

Federal Officials Would Ask Known Wife Of Darnell To Testify In Either Chicago or Milwaukee.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Federal officials today sought to find Miss Ruth Soper who was known as the wife of the late Rev. James H. Darnell. While he was pastor of a church in Kenosha, Wis. If found the young woman will be asked to testify either with the charges made against Darnell that he had violated the Mann white slave act.

C. F. Cline, district attorney, refused to say whether the hearing would be here or in Milwaukee. He was generally understood in federal circles that Darnell was prepared to waive examination and consent to appear in Milwaukee when his case was called for February 23.

Darnell did not furnish bonds today and remains in custody in the county jail.

These specific charges against Darnell was that he had transported Miss Soper from Minnesota to Chicago and thence to Kenosha in violation of the Mann act.

Girl Located.

St. Paul, Feb. 19.—Over the long distance telephone from Owatonna, Minn., this afternoon, Mrs. Wm. H. Soper, mother of Miss Ruth Soper, whose testimony is sought in connection with the charges against the Rev. J. N. Darnell, under Mann white slave act, said her daughter expected to be present when Darnell is given a hearing, but whether or not she would testify would depend on advice of counsel. Miss Soper has been staying at her home in Owatonna since Darnell's arrest.

AMERICAN RED CROSS HAVE BIG HOSPITAL SITUATED NEAR NICE.

Nice, Feb. 19.—The American Red Cross hospital here occupies a villa about a hundred yards from the sea, with 24 beds, all endowed for the duration of the war. It is in the charge of a French military surgeon, and the operators' room is in the care of an American doctor, and the nurses are all American women. American women have also organized a workroom where they spend the warmer part of each day knitting warm clothing and patching worn garments for convalescent soldiers about to return to the front.

BELGIAN GETS IN JAIL FOR UNPatriotic WORDS.

Paris, Feb. 19.—The Third Court Martial of Paris sentenced a Belgian named Stylen to two years imprisonment for making the following declaration: "Germany asks nothing better than to make peace if she is allowed to annex Belgium and Alsace. I do not give a damn whether I become Prussian or not. The Germans, massacred in Belgium because they were fired upon."

The judgment has been reversed on account of an error of form and the case will be tried over.

NEW ZEPPELIN SHIPS FILL GAP IN PATROL OF NORTH SEA FLEET

Daring German Bldmen Recruit Air Fleet With Other Zeppelins From Western Germany.

London, Feb. 19.—The activity of Zeppelin airships over the North Sea continues, telegraphs the correspondent at Copenhagen of the London Star, and this despite the fact that two airships recently have been lost. Gaps in the fleet caused by disaster from the airship station in western Germany.

A dispatch received from Copenhagen last night described the loss of two German airships in the North Sea. Zeppelin L-3 exploded on Foul Island Wednesday, and another such airship, commanded by Capt. Count Platow, crashed north of the Jutland Peninsula yesterday. It has been asserted that the entire Zeppelin fleet is patrolling the North Sea, just outside English waters. Zeppelin No. 2 is believed to be the flagship.

Another dispatch from Rotterdam says the Dutch steamer Helena was overhauled in the North Sea last night by a German airship, which trained her guns on the steamer and ordered her to heave to, and when satisfied as to the Helena's identity, the captain of the Zeppelin apologized and descended with his staff.

PROPOSE TO EXTEND SYMPATHY TO WILSON

Senator Bray Offers Resolution to State Law-makers for Encouraging President Wilson.

Madison, Feb. 19.—Senator Bray of Oshkosh, in a joint resolution offered today, proposed that the Wisconsin legislature extend its sympathy and encouragement to President Wilson in the trying hour of his stewardship. Senator Tompkins wanted it taken up at once, but owing to absence of many senators it went over until next week. The resolution recites the position of the president as the head of the burden of 100,000,000 people, and as one who is beset with partisan claims and attempts to violate this nation's neutrality, and extends its sympathy and its confidence in his integrity and zeal.

The confirmation of J. N. Furman of La Crosse, as member of the state board of education, was placed on Tuesday's calendar.

The senate killed the Bennett bill allowing the court to pay a portion of the cost of the payment in certain cases, and the Burke bill relating to judges drawing papers without charge. The senate passed the Baxter bill, permitting foreign corporations to engage in business in this state without being licensed in Wisconsin.

The Whitman bill amending the section limiting salaries of officers, and fixing of salaries by unanimous vote of the board of trustees, was unanimously recommended for passage.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST BOARD LAW REPEAL ADVANCED BY BOAG

President of Rock County Board of Education is Prominent Among Those at Committee Hearing.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 19.—All roads led to the committee on education and public welfare of the senate yesterday afternoon, when the Burke bill repealing the county board of education had another hearing. The discussion led to so many high personal exchanges between friends and enemies of the bill that Acting Chairman Albers was forced to gavel for order time after time.

Among opponents of the law, favoring the repeal bill, were Assemblyman C. W. Wood, chairman of the Chippewa county board of supervisors; Assemblyman C. K. Ellingson, Hawkins; and County Superintendent C. W. Smith, Columbia county. For the law appeared C. E. Patzer, Milwaukee; B. E. Walters, Mosinee, president of the Marathon county board of education; C. W. Smith, chief of police of the Rock county board of education, and others.

Governor Favors Repeal. In the midst of the arguments, M. J. Cleary, counsel to Governor Philipp, secured the floor and made a statement upon the executive's stand on the question at issue. He stated that the governor was about that the governor had changed his views on it since he sent his message asking for the repeal of the law. This characterization, without basis, the governor had never made the statement that he has switched on the subject and that he remains true to his original opinion.

Mr. Smith argued that the present law did not meet the situation facing the rural schools and that if county boards of supervisors would furnish superintendents with funds, the desired ends would be achieved. He admitted that he had not asked his county board of supervisors for such assistance, but he stated it was only because he believed they would not grant the demand. If assistant and county superintendents are created, he favored the repeal of the law. He favored the repeal of the law from state funds. Mr. Smith was subjected to a running fire of questions, and he had many a sharp tilt with Mr. Patzer.

The case of the repeal law was presented by Mr. Patzer. Mr. Walters and Mr. Boag, among others. Attention was called to the claim that the constitution of the education board originates with county supervisors who are deprived of their per diem of $3 and of power to change district boundaries.

The hearing Senator Jennings, one of the youngest members, asked Supt. Smith a question. Mr. Smith did not answer it and stated he would refuse to answer any question. "From the committee too?" asked Senator Jennings.

"Then please answer mine," replied the Milwaukee colon.

The joke was on the school man, who had failed to recognize in Mr. Jennings one of the state's lawmakers.

PROVIDE PEACE RULES FOR PREVENTING WARS

British Organization Lay Down Principles to Guide the Farmers of Peace Terms When Conflict Ends.

London, Feb. 19.—An organization known as the Union of Democratic Control has been formed by a number of distinguished Britishers to lay down principles to guide the farmers of the peace terms with a view to securing a lasting peace by giving the people of countries and provinces the right to settle their own destinies, and reducing international armaments.

The executive committee of the Union is composed of Ramsey MacDonald, M. P., Charles Trevelyan, M. P., Arthur Ponsonby, M. P., and Norman Angell, the leader of the international peace movement. Their principles are:

1.—No province shall be transferred from one government to another without the consent by plebiscite, or otherwise, of the population of the province.

2.—No treaty, arrangement or undertaking shall be entered upon in the name of Great Britain without the sanction of Parliament. Adequate machinery for ensuring democratic control of foreign policy shall be created.

3.—The foreign policy of Great Britain shall not be aimed at creating alliances for the purpose of maintaining the balance of power, but shall be directed to concerted action between the nations of the world for an international council whose deliberations and decisions shall be public, with such machinery for securing international agreement as shall be the guarantee of an abiding peace.

4.—Great Britain shall propose as part of the peace settlement a plan for the drastic reduction, by consent, of the armaments of the belligerent powers and, to facilitate that policy, shall attempt to secure the general nationalization of the manufacture of armaments and the control of the export of armaments by one country to another.

OPPOSES WOMEN IN ARMAMENT PLANS

Secretary Garrison Says U. S. Might Find Itself at Disadvantage If Armaments Were Nationalized.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Secretary Garrison today told a delegation of the Women's Peace Party, headed by Mrs. Robert M. La Follette, that he is opposed to their plans for nationalization of the manufacture of armament. He said that the women are up as different nations have unequal facilities for the manufacture of arms, the results might easily be that the United States would find itself at a great disadvantage if thrust into war unless there was private manufacture.

FIGHTING AT YPRES RENEWED THIS WEEK

LONDON ANNOUNCEMENT TELLS OF SEVERE ENGAGEMENTS IN BELGIUM AND FRANCE.

NEW RUSSIAN RETREAT

Austrians Reported to Have Forced Retirement of Invaders From Bukovina—Changes Rumanian Situation.

London, Feb. 19.—A report on the progress of the fighting on the continent was given out officially in London today. It is the second bi-weekly communication on the operations of the British army in France, promised by the authorities, and it reads as follows:

New Fight at Ypres.

"The enemy has displayed considerable activity during the past few days southeast of Ypres. The fighting at this part of the line has at times been severe. At one or two points the enemy succeeded in occupying some of our trenches, but they were driven out by counter-attacks. One of the enemy's trenches was blown up and a number of prisoners were taken. Our troops delivered their counter-attacks with great gallantry in spite of the difficulties entailed by the water-logged condition of the ground and the trenches and the bad weather."

On the night of Feb. 15-16 an attack was made on our line north of the Ypres. The following day a night attack was made on our line near Neuve Chapelle. Both were easily driven off with loss to the enemy. All the ground recently gained by us has been strengthened and held without difficulty.

Silence German Artillery.

"South of the river Lys our guns dealt effectively with the enemy's artillery, the fire of which has increased somewhat of late."

Our aircraft has carried out valuable reconnaissances and they have also successfully captured aeroplanes of the enemy. One of our aviators recently attacked two German machines in succession. He drove off the first and left the second to the artillery, which brought it to the ground in hostile lines."

Bukovina Free of Russians.

All the reports agree that the Austrians, along the Russians, have entirely out of Bukovina by the Russians claim that they retired in good order, but they do not seek to deny their retreat. Several weeks ago the occupation of Bukovina by the Rumanians and presence of the Austrians near the Rumanian frontier, was hailed as a situation which should justify the entrance of Rumania into the war on the side of the allies. Today, with Bukovina once more in Austrian hands, the situation again grows interesting. Newspaper correspondents have ceased predicting when Rumania will take up arms, but sympathizers with the allies have not given up the expectation that she ultimately will take this step."

The situation of the eastern extremity of the east battle line so clear as it was a few days ago, entirely on both sides of the east Prussia frontier, has been desolated and areas both in the west and East Prussia have been converted into a sort of present day Belgium.

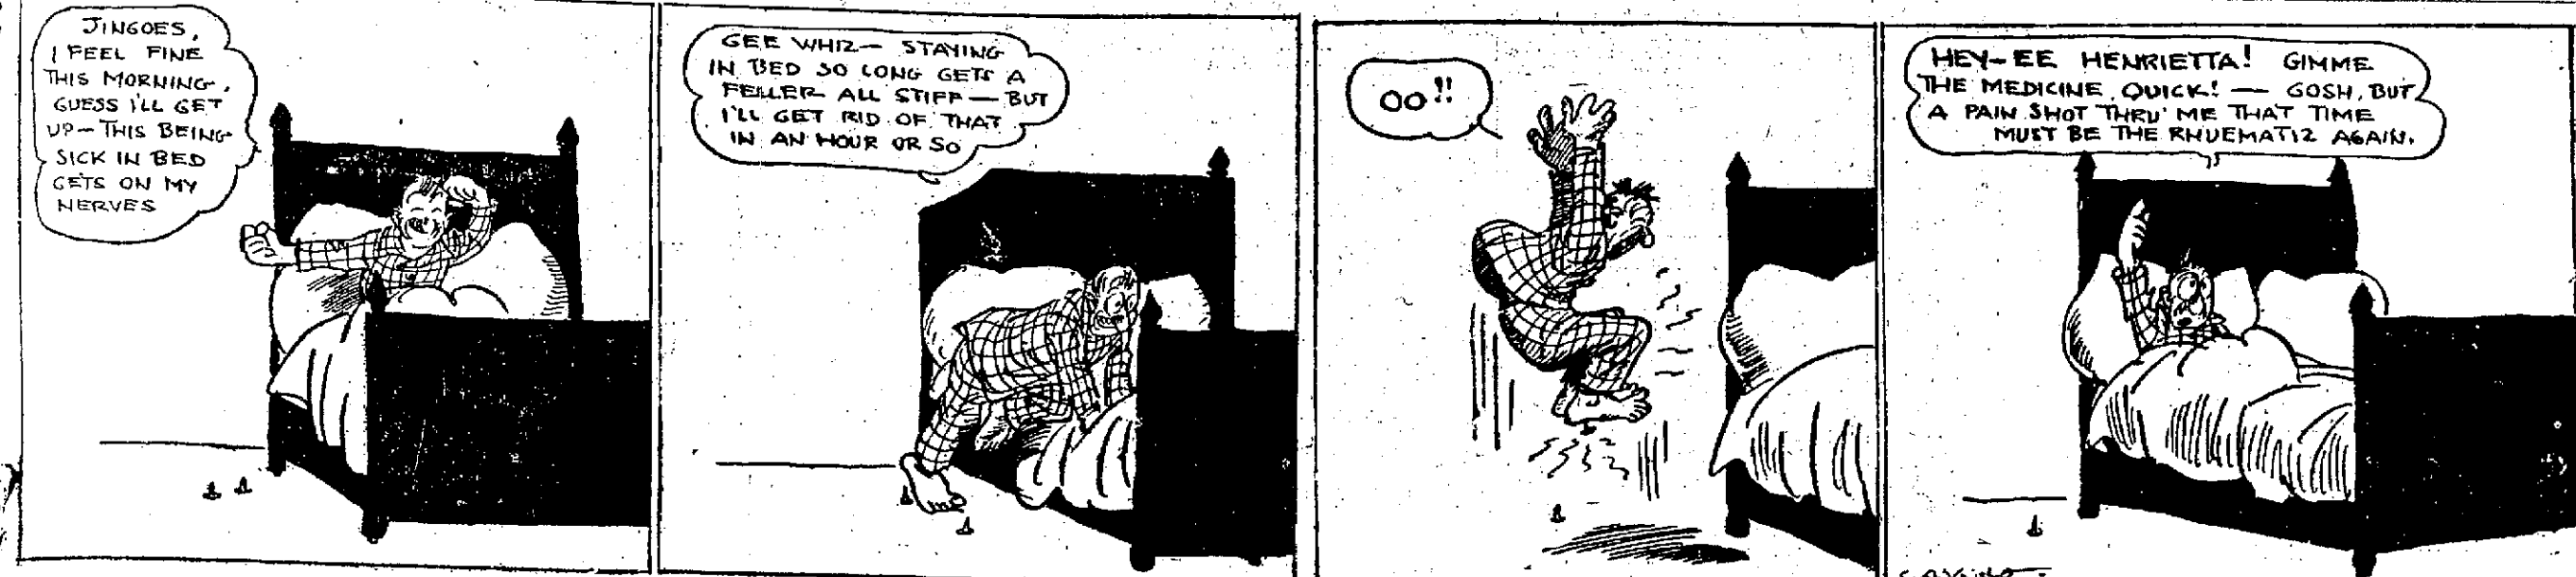

No Important Battles.

Apparently no great battles have been fought since the Russian began their retreat toward the river Niemen. Petrograd insists that engagements have been fought but that they were won by the Russians. On the other hand, German claims and the taking of a notable victory over the Russians at East Prussia, including the taking of no fewer than 64,000 prisoners.

Russian Retreat Severe.

Berlin, via Warsaw, Feb. 19.—Further reports concerning the German victory of the Mazurian lakes region in East Prussia make it appear that the Russian defeat was a severe one. German military circles in Berlin doubt whether much remains of about five Russian army corps which were engaged in the recent battle. They say the Russians have saved some of their artillery through quick retreat. It seems certain that Russian troops to the number of at least 150,000 are no longer in the Mazurian region. The German army. The clearing of the Anzer crown land of Bukovina of the invaders is taken by German officials to mean a Russian retreat on the other extreme wing of the operation in the east.

Estimated Average Speed—Vanderbilt Cup race, eighty miles an hour; Grand Prix, seventy-eight miles an hour.

Vanderbilt Cup has twice been won by Ralph De Palma, and a third victory by him would make the trophy his permanent property and close the greatest road competition in history.

San Francisco, Feb. 19.—The Grand Prix and the Vanderbilt Cup races bid fair to resolve themselves this year into unprecedented battles for the speed supremacy of the world.

For the first time in the history of these great American classics both events will be held upon a course where hundreds of thousands of thrilled spectators will be able to see practically every foot of the entire course. The Grand Prix is to be held over the exposition course on February 22 and the Vanderbilt Cup on the 27th.

The class of the machines and the ability of their drivers are such as warrant the expectations of a record-breaking speed contest.

Earl Cooper's recent victory at San Diego with the Stutz has once more demonstrated his ability to get away with the big prize events and places him among the strongest competitors for honors in the exposition races. Ray Harroun is another driver whose reputation as a speed king will make him a prime favorite with the spectators of the big events.

The Vanderbilt Cup race is 300 miles in length and will require seventy-five laps of the four-mile course. The Grand Prix is 100 miles longer and will require 100 laps to complete. In the entire history of these events there has never been such a remarkable course provided. Laid out as it is between the walls of beautiful exhibit palaces, the races will provide thrills for every moment of the contests. At the same time the danger of accident is reduced to a minimum. The roadway, asphalted through with the exception of the portion of the mile dirt track employed by cabs, this division line is a nine foot wall covered with hurlap and pads. This constitutes the safest form of barrier ever employed on a race course.

The grand stand, before which will be the start and finish of both races, seats 18,000 persons and faces the bay of San Francisco. The races will start at 10 o'clock in the morning and are expected to be over by 2 o'clock in the afternoon. It is estimated that nearly two hundred thousand spectators will view the contests.

Harroun is one of the best known racing experts in the world today, being the designer and builder of the famous Maxwell racing cars. Harroun has always been a prominent contender in the big events and especially during the past two years has been a contestant on the Indianapolis speedway and the biggest road events. Barney Oldfield and W. M. Carlton will drive two of the Maxwells. Harroun will pilot a third and the driver for the fourth Maxwell entry has not yet been named.

Edis Rickenbacker, Gil Anderson are among the devil drivers who will race, and Ralph de Palma, twice winner of the Vanderbilt Cup, has declared that he cannot afford to miss the chance to win the third time, which will result in his gaining permanent possession of the cup.

ERTEL THINKS HIMSELF TOO GOOD TO APPEAR IN A PRELIMINARY BATTLE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 19.—The sensational ring success of Johnny Ertel, the St. Paul bantam, appears to have turned the head of Mike McNulty, manager of the boy, as McNulty is showing a disposition to balk on an agreement that he signed for Ertel to box before the Cream City Athletic club the latter part of February. Tom Andrews, matchmaker of the club, matched Ertel to meet one of three bantams, among them being Jimmy Walsh of Chicago. Now McNulty is balking over the terms. He claims that his boy is a wind-up attraction and is too good for the preliminary class. Mr. Andrews has filed an appeal with the state boxing commission and will force Ertel to go through with the match with Walsh. Ertel is being mentioned in connection with a championship match with Kid Williams of Baltimore, and the publicity that has come to him through this has given McNulty the idea that the boy is too good to appear in anything but a wind-up contest hereafter.

PLAY FOR CUP NEXT MONDAY; HIGH TEAM TO MEET STOUGHTON

Both Contests Will Be Played in the Afternoon.—Expect Entire Student Body to Attend.

Since next Monday is a holiday in the schools of the city, and especially the high school, Coach Curtis of the basketball quint has arranged for a basketball afternoon at the high school gymnasium, beginning at two-thirty o'clock. Promptly at this scheduled time, the Presbyterians and Congregational church leagues, will meet and decide the championship of the league. At three-thirty o'clock the referee will blow the whistle again which call will bring upon the floor the Janesville and Stoughton high school tusslers, who will battle in an elimination game. This game has not been ordered played, but since the season is no longer young, ball games played from now on throughout the state are generally regarded as elimination struggles.

With the above program outlined for the afternoon, accompanied by the high school orchestra and cheer leaders, not to mention the large number of church team followers and high five supporters that will undoubtedly swarm the gymnasium, a lively day is bound to result.

Coach Curtis is in favor of playing games in the afternoon. Whereas in the past only about fifty per cent of the student body has been attending the conflicts, there is no doubt but what every student, whether he be from the country or city, will make an effort to watch his school players perform next Monday.

The Stoughton contest takes the place of the game that might have been played on the 26th at night. Curtis has arranged matters this way to accommodate especially the entire student body. Because of the title church game an immense throng of additional rooters is expected to be present.

The schedule: Jegerson will play here on March 5th. On the 12th, Elkhorn will come to this city for a hard contest. In last night's paper it was stated that the high school fire go to the Milton tourney on the 12th. The Milton tourney will not commence until the 17th, and will close the next day. These dates fall on Wednesday and Thursday.

Coach Curtis has received a letter from Director Atkinson of the tournament regarding the playing of elimination games. He declares that Janesville still has a good chance of entering the tourney. The coming game with Elkhorn should uncover the blue's strength.

Games Tonight.

Janesville is ready for the Wisconsin highs tonight in the local gymnasium. This game will be called at eight-thirty, following the Methodist-Catholic contest billed for seven-thirty. Captain Stickney knows little about the Madison players, and therefore makes no predictions. A fight is expected.

A number of good country places are advertised for rent in this issue of the Gazette. Turn to the Want Ad page now.

EVEN BELOIT NINE HAS TRAINING FEVER

Golden Dreams of Taking Training Trip to Dixie Land Infests Minds of College Baseball Men. (SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Beloit, Wis., Feb. 19.—Plans are being considered for sending the college baseball team on a training trip to Alabama or Georgia this spring. This will be the first time a trip of this nature was ever undertaken by local athletes. The squad began indoor practice last week.

The schedule, as arranged at present, includes the following games: April 17—Wisconsin at Madison. April 24—Wisconsin at Beloit. May 4—Notre Dame at South Bend. May 11—Armour at Chicago. May 15—Lake Forest at Beloit. May 19—Armour at Beloit. May 29—Knox at Galesburg. June 5—Lake Forest at Lake Forest.

The annual home wrestling tournament will be held tonight. A six-man team will be picked from the winners to meet University of Chicago artists in Chicago either May 12 or 19.

University "Ducks."

Madison, Wis., Feb. 19.—The annual interclass swimming meet will be held in the university gym late this afternoon. It is open to every student except varsity men.

Eight events will be staged. They include: Plunge, 10, 100, 220-yard dashes, 40-yard back stroke, 100-yard breast stroke, relay race and water polo. Numerals will be awarded for first place, and ribbons for first, second and third.

Muggsy McGraw Will Have a Well Populated Kindergarten With Him on Spring Training Trip.

(By Hal Sheridan.)

New York, Feb. 19.—Alleged phenoms by the score are drifting into Muggsy McGraw's office this week, and Johnny is giving them the once over before he takes his pick of recruits and regulars to Marlin Springs next Thursday.

McGraw is abiding by the league rule that a training camp must begin until March 1, and will start the main bunch southward on February 25, landing three days later. But when the recruits get there they'll find a lot of the veterans a couple of baths ahead of them, and read to instruct Dick Kinsella's finds in the art of losing their swollen disposition.

Kinsella has been ploughing through the woods, looking up trees for recruits ever since last July, and he thinks he has a lot of phenoms. There are twenty pitchers, twelve infielders and several notable outfielders in the bunch likely to stand the preliminary weeding out, but McGraw says the total number of youngsters anxious for a try-out will be far beyond him.

The squad that leaves New York next Thursday will be joined at St. Louis by a training division, and they will land in Marlin under the barrier, as provided by the league decision, which is more, much more observance of the rule than by most of the national league clubs.

Best Bowling of Season Marks Matched Contest at Miller's Alleys Last Evening.

In one of the best bowling matches of the season a team composed of Baumann, Dickerson, Ryan, Mead and Abraham, won over a team composed of Olson, Kirkoff, Pinner, Robbins and Nelson, at Miller's alleys last evening. The margin of victory was 45 pins, one of the closest matches of the season. Nelson, rolling high score with 226 pins. Following is the record of the battle.

Miller's Tigers
Osborn	163	192	148
Kirkoff	124	168	136
Pinner	143	120	114
Robbins	172	192	180
Nelson	153	162	225-2463

Miller's Giants
Baumann	169	141	168
Dickerson	136	149	149
Ryan	177	189	178
Olson	150	174	142
Abraham	182	173	201-2498

Won by 45 pins.

OLD CONNIE MACK WILL CHANGE 'EM.

At least the Mackmen are to look like athletes on the road, instead of marchers, in a funeral procession. Connie has ordered modern uniforms for 1916. Hurray!

The Mackmen will be clad in light gray uniforms with blue stripes and white stockings with blue stripes. Not since the league was founded have Mackmen worn anything but those dingy, chocolate uniforms. And those real awful caps. But in 1916, Connie is kicking up his heels. He's going to have his boys look like humans out there. Hurray!

Sport Snap Shots MORRIS MILLER

"I am one of the few people who really think Jess Willard will whip Jack Johnson," says Jimmy McGill, brother of the late "Pittsburgh Phil," racetrack plunger, who owns the Indianapolis American association club. "I am thoroughly confident that the morning of March 7 will see a new champion, even though said champion may not be such a wonder. I'm not pinning faith on any alleged improvement in Willard's abilities, but on the total slump in fighting form of Johnson. It was my luck to see Johnson in action against Jim Jeffries and Jim Flynn. The Johnson who fought Flynn was a ghost of the Johnson who fought Jeffries, and that was three years ago. During those three years Johnson has been living a merry life, and also getting steadily older. I think he can't be more than a faint echo of what he used to be, and any big, powerful fellow should beat him over a long run. Anyway, that's how I figure the situation."

Hughie Jennings is contemplating making a second basemen out of first sacker George Burns in order to plug the hole that exists on the Detroit infield. Marty Kavanagh has been tagged too light for major league duty and is through as a Tiger. Pay Oscar Vitt, Frankie Fuller and a couple of others are after the second base job, but Hughie thinks Burns will prove a better man than any of these. Bill Donovan's refusal to buy first baseman Walter Pipp from Detroit because of Pipp's salary demands gives Jennings a capable man for the first sack and enables him to think of shifting Burns to second.

E. C. Patterson, president of the national amateur baseball association, holds no admiration for some of the men who frame the rules which convert amateur athletes into professionals and—sometimes—professionals into amateurs. "There are too many pettifoggers among them," says Patterson. "They mean all right, but generally are not conversant with the subject with which they are dealing."

ATWOOD LAUDED AS BEST STATE PLAYER

Instructor Atkinson at Lawrence Tells Coach Curtis in Letter of Wonderful Work of "Eddie."

That Edward Atwood of Janesville, center on the Carroll College basketball five, and a member of the Lakota Cardinals' quint of this city, is the best basketball player in Wisconsin, is the firm opinion of Professor of Economics Atkinson of Lawrence College.

Atkinson wrote Coach Curtis a letter the other day praising the work of "Eddie" in the Carroll-Lawrence contest played at Waukesha last Friday night, when Atwood scored nine field goals over the mighty Thompson-Townsend center. Thompson was able by additional efforts to drop two goals during the game. On the floor Atwood was a marked man, was watched by every Lawrence man, but still managed to play the best game, with apparent ease and in wonderful style.

"Eddie" will play Saturday night for the Lakotas against the world's champions from Troy, New York. Just what he will do against a world beater is questionable, but there is little doubt but what he will hold his own. He will play forward against the Troy bunch. He can play at any of the three positions, but prefers being at forward. Atwood was for two years all-state forward on the Janesville high school teams of 1913 and 1914.

"After a red hot finish in a ball game a pipe full of Tuxedo makes victory sweeter, or defeat more endurable. Ee—yah for Tuxedo."

"Come on, boys—Smoke Up! With TUXEDO!"

"Ee—yah!" That's Hughie Jennings' battcry, out there on the coaching line by third base. He's one of the peppier, gingeriest men in baseball; always up on his toes, rooting for dear life, making those runs come in.

Want to get some of that old snappy feeling yourself? Smoke Tuxedo, same as Jennings does. It'll boost you right up into the zingdooey class of fellows who are always on the go, full of vim and good nature, piling up success.

PROPOSED LAWS.

Now that the bulk of the bills to be introduced at the present session of the legislature have been presented, the public can sit back and give a contented sigh and wait results.

Measures to repeal everything from the state tax commission to abolishment of the humble office of superintendent of aparies have been presented for consideration, but making it all in all there is less of fool legislation proposed than at any previous session.

Assemblyman Caldwell of Lodi is after the state board of agriculture.

First he would abolish the board entirely and then he would take away their pet—the state fair—abandon the costly and expensive Milwaukee show grounds and make the state fair a part of the state agricultural college as an annual exhibit. C. K. Ellingson, who hails from Hawkins, and is representative in the assembly from Rusk and Sawyer counties, a bluff old chap who is a farmer and also a manufacturer, has another bill in which he would re-organize the state agricultural society and make it what it now fails to be—an agricultural society conducted by men interested in such pursuits.

Nor are these the only bills aimed at the agricultural society. The investigating committee is said to have a proposed measure up its sleeve to be part of their final report when they get to the bottom of the rotten and corrupt mismanagement of state affairs. Meanwhile there is one other bill relative to this same state board of agriculture that demands attention and that is to rescind the appropriation of some quarter of a million dollars that was to have been used for improvement of the grounds and buildings at the state fair park, Milwaukee. Meanwhile the board itself is in debt and needs an appropriation to help them pay legitimate bills that have been contracted, so we may expect interesting discussion on this subject when this emergency currency measure comes up. In connection with the agricultural interests there are also other bills of interest. One is to take the farmer out of the class of employers of labor under the workmen's compensation law. Another appropriation for various falls to receive state aid. In this bill is the Janesville fair bill which comes up for consideration before the committee at a later date. There is also a cigarette law which is worth consideration as it makes practical the enforcement of an act which prohibits the sale of the cigarette to minors and the present law. In reference to the cigarette there is also another law which would prohibit state employees in educational institutions from smoking. Senator Bray of Oshkosh had some trouble with the newspapers during his recent campaign relative to prices paid for political advertisement and he has two bills on the subject of advertising rates up for consideration. Assemblyman Kautz has a bill to abolish the state insurance plan which will bring forth a hard fought, while Assemblyman Hambrecht has one in making Lincoln's birthday a legal holiday. Later it may be possible to systematize the various bills under classes and discuss them in more detail, but today they are still a mass, many conflicting and meaning much hard work for committees to whom they have been assigned for consideration and hearing. But taking it all in all the bills presented are based on sound principles and will be given careful consideration by the members of both houses when brought up for action.

SALE OF CIGARETTES.

The present law prohibiting the sale of cigarettes in Wisconsin is a farce. Anyone, be he a minor or a grown person, can purchase his favorite brand of paper pipes at almost any cigar store. True, they are not displayed for sale, as are other tobacco products, but the clerk can find them for you quickly enough. Before the present legislature is a bill which would remedy this evil and make it possible to restrict the sale of various brands so that minors could be excluded. The Oshkosh Northwestern treats of the proposed law in the following manner:

"An important change in the state cigarette law is proposed in a bill which has been introduced in the legislature by Assemblyman Doble of Superior. Under the terms of this measure it is proposed that the present prohibition against the sale of cigarettes and 'makings' be repealed and an entirely new system be inaugurated to cope with this evil. Minors are to be prohibited from purchasing or using cigarettes, with a penalty of $10 fine, or thirty days in jail, or violation of this clause of the statute. In addition to this all dealers who wish to sell cigarettes are to take out a special license, costing $25 for a two year period, and if they are detected in selling to a minor, they are to be made subject to a fine of not less than $25 or more than $100, or imprisonment in jail for sixty days, or both.

The details of this proposed law, so it is stated, are similar to the provisions of anti-cigarette laws now in force in a number of other states, where such statutes are claimed to be working out in a most satisfactory manner. The present Wisconsin law, as is generally known, is practically a dead-letter law, more honored in the breach than in the observance. Cigarettes are sold everywhere, with little pretense of concealment, and minors, the same as adults, have no difficulty in securing all they desire to purchase. The very fact that the law is thus violated with impunity, with respect to the sale of cigarettes, encourages the further violation of its provision intended to curb the use of cigarettes by minors. No one, in fact, seems to pay any attention to the enforcement of the law, and the latter is therefore worse than no law at all. "By revising the law and putting it on a practical working basis, the first step will have been taken toward providing a system that will accomplish the desired end, which, of course, is the prevention of the sale of cigarettes to minors and preventing the latter from using tobacco in this form, which is practice injurious both to health and morals of young and immature persons. This object is distinctly a laudable one, but it is not being accomplished under the present law. The thing to do, therefore, is to change the law and make it workable, and the proposed plan appears to be the best yet devised. The licensing of cigarette dealers is, of course, a very essential feature of this plan, as in the market the number of cigarette dealers will be restricted to the same time protected against the competition of unlawful dealers. And by making the penalty for sale to minors severe, not many regular dealers will care to take the risk."

BASEBALL TALK.

Janesville has an opportunity to place a baseball team in the newly organized Bi-State league, and the promoters of the scheme are at present canvassing the Janesville business men with a view of securing their support. There was a day when baseball in Janesville was a fine art. The old Mutuals made a mark in the baseball world that some of the old timers still talk about. Janesville boys have gone from the sand lot diamonds of the city and made good in the fastest company in the country. Of late years it would appear that the local fans preferred to join the "hot stove league" or spend a day in Chicago watching major league games. However, here is a chance to place a first-class aggregation in the field, wearing a Janesville uniform, and the opportunity should not be passed up without due consideration.

President Wilson has decided that he will not call a special session of congress to pass his ship purchase bill. Perhaps he figures Germany will make some overt action against American shipping before that time and it would be a good thing to have some property of the emperor to hold for security for damages.

This transformation from winter into spring, with the freshets, the spring colds and the spring tonic, has been sudden enough to suit anyone. However it is too good to last, and we may expect just one more blast of old King Winter at least, before he retires to the northland for the next six months.

It would appear as though the Lloyds in London really believe that England will force the United States into some sort of a warlike demonstration against Germany inside the next six months from the rate they are quoting war risks at twenty-five "bobs" in place of five of a few weeks ago.

UNIFORMLY GOOD VAUDEVILLE BILL

Apollo Gives Best All Around Program Seen Here in Some Time.

Six encores were demanded of Mazzone and Mazzone at the Apollo last night at the first show. These clever brothers sing popular song hits and play one plays an accordion and the other a guitar. They are talented singers and instrumentalists and help make up what is undoubtedly the best all around vaudeville bill ever presented here. Every act is a feature.

The Three Weber Sisters present a novel and spectacular acrobatic act. Hilda Orth has a beautiful contralto voice and plays her own accompaniments. Lawrence and Lawrence are clever dancers and singers. In part of their act they dance and play the piano at the same time.

Mazzone and Mazzone promise a new song hit for tonight. "I want to be in Tennessee"—which has a catchy air and swing to it.

The photoplay last night was very much appreciated also.

BUSINESS MEN GIVE FUNDS AND BACKING TO BASEBALL LEAGUE

Many Fans Among Merchants and Boosters Secure $1,000 on Rapidly Growing Subscription.

Boosters of the Bi-State Baseball league are not permitting the grass to grow under their feet in Janesville this week. Persistent efforts on the part of George Bubser, manager of the Wausau White Sox, and C. T. Marshall, who has charge of Rockford during the season of 1914, has raised interest in the new league to a remarkable degree, and the city as a whole seems to be in favor of playing organized ball in Janesville.

Marshall and Bubser at 2 o'clock this afternoon had raised eleven hundred dollars by subscription among business men to back the league. Less than half of the merchants have been approached, but the willingness expressed showed that more than half of the three thousand dollars necessary with which to secure the franchise and put the players here would be secured without much trouble.

The Bi-State backers were confident this afternoon that it would be an easy matter for Janesville to break into the league. In other cities the subscription lists were filling somewhat slower than in Janesville. The enthusiasm which the new league has created thus far at this early season is plenty indication, the directors say, to point to the fact that the organization will be successful.

The big booster meeting to be held at the assembly chamber at the city hall next Friday night should be attended by every fan in the city of Janesville to secure a place in the league. Officers of the body will be present and outline fully the proposed plans. Frank P. Regner, president of the Wausau club of last year, has written to Mr. Bubser that he has disposed to sell the entire outfit from the pine street district, including players, suits and equipment. Bubser today said that in all probability Regner would still come to Janesville to sell the outfit from the pine street district, including players, suits and equipment. Bubser today said that in all probability Regner would still come to Janesville to sell the outfit from the pine street district, including players, suits and equipment.

Wausau has a number of young and promising players who made good last year, and a number of old heads who, although able to put up a good brand of ball, were a detriment to the team because of their high salaries demanded. The league went broke because of its salary limit, and attempts at Milwaukee Monday, where a special meeting was called for by President Regner of Green Bay, to attempt to reorganize among northern Wisconsin teams, is sure to be a failure. Oshkosh, three times champion of the league in the past three years, has dropped out. Wausau and Appleton are also tired of treasury deficits and have given up their franchise. President Weeks will have heavy sailing in reorganizing with only Oshkosh, Milwaukee and Green Bay as nucleus. Madison is dissatisfied with the Wisconsin-Indiana body and is bending every effort to secure a berth on the Bi-State circuit.

McDowell of the Commercial club has been approached in regard to the new league, and the matter will be taken up at the next meeting of the directors, which will be held Monday noon. With the success and enthusiasm secured by Bubser and Marshall, it is expected that the Janesville adament body will give close consideration to the baseball idea in Janesville.

Otovin Bohman Taken to Columbus, Wisconsin, To Answer Charges of Speeding There.

"Worse and more of it," said Otovin Bohman as Officer Knopisch, of Columbus, Wisconsin, served a warrant on the Janesville young man at noon today charging him with violating the speed ordinances of Columbus, last November. The Columbus warrant was issued shortly after the one here and it is reported Bohman was taken into custody at Columbus and released on his promise to stop speeding at Columbus but no sooner had he mounted his machine than it is alleged the throttle was opened up and the exhaust turned loose, bidding the officers a speedy good-bye.

When the Columbus police learned of Bohman's paying a fine of twenty-five dollars and costs in the Janesville municipal court Wednesday an officer called to take him to Columbus. Bohman was taken to Columbus at one o'clock and will be arraigned in court this afternoon or Saturday morning.

SPENCER DEAL HOME IN MONROE GUTTED BY FIRE EARLY THIS MORNING

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Monroe, Wis., Feb. 19.—The interior of Spencer Deal's residence, in the First ward, was gutted by fire at 5 o'clock this morning, only the shell remaining. Mr. and Mrs. Deal, who were in a down stairs bedroom, barely had time to escape in their night clothing, and Lawrence Deal and his sister, Miss Vera Deal, escaped through an upstairs window. The few household effects saved were ruined by the fire and smoke, and the family lost all their clothing. The loss is covered by insurance. Mr. Deal is a lineman with the Monroe Electric company and his son is a lineman with the United Telephone company.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

WITH GLOVES AND WITHOUT.

"It's easy enough to get along with a man," said the much married lady, "if you only learn to handle him with gloves."

"He couldn't be so ready-to-be-married if listened with a toss forward of her firm, little chin."

"But suppose you don't like to wear gloves all the time?" said she.

"Suppose you don't like the feeling of them?"

"The much married lady looked at such heresy."

"It's the only way to get along with most men," she reiterated.

"But is it the right way?" asked the girl.

"Why, of course," said the much married lady. She is one of those people to whom what is, is always right.

But is it the right way, reader friend? Is it hereby to dislike being forced to wear figurative gloves all the time?

Of course that depends more or less on the meaning of "gloves."

If they mean tact and consideration, that's one thing, they mean constant humoring, constant submission to unfairness and rampant selfishness, merely because submission is easier, that's quite another thing. Men have to give consideration if they expect to receive it in business, then why not at home in the business of living?

Home should be restful for a hard working man," says the exponent of the handle-with-gloves school of wives.

Giving a Man the Right to Be a Bully.

By "restful" I take it you mean a man should have full right in his home to bully, to blow off the irritation he has accumulated during the day, and to general make everyone in the home feel the painful necessity of handling him with gloves, just as we do anything scratchy, or disagreeable, or poisonous.

Beware, no man who is given that right fails to take advantage of it. Moreover, in so doing he loses as much happiness for himself as he spoils for others, which is saying a great deal.

The happiest homes are those in which neither party has to handle the other with gloves, but each is glad to treat the other with tact, with consideration, and with that sensitive understanding which is the fine flower of a true love.

RUTH CAMERON

Questions and Answers.

Question. "Do you think it is right for me to use the interest of my money for household expenses? My husband is hard working, sober and honest, but his wages are small. It seems right to me, but I have a chum who is similarly placed, and she tells her husband 'what's mine is mine, what's yours is ours.'"

Reply. Certainly I should use my interest money to help my husband out. Aren't you two partners? But I shouldn't get into the habit of touch other savings.

Question. "My two brothers are keeping company with two girl friends of mine to whom I introduced them, but they never introduce any of their friends to me and I have no chance to make such friends. Don't you think they ought to be more considerate?"

Reply. Certainly they should. A thoughtful brother will see that his sister has a chance to meet worthwhile male friends, but most boys, you know, aren't by nature thoughtful. Can't you intimate your feelings to them? They might be glad to help if they understood.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Our Sunday school class would like to earn some money so that we can give an Easter offering to the church. Will you suggest some way in which we could earn it? We thought about selling some kind of a social that would be entirely different from the ones the other classes are giving. There are eight of us, ranging from fifteen years of age to sixteen years of age.

V. I. R.

Give a party on Feb. 27, on Longfellow's birthday. Ask the guests to wear some article indicative of a title of one of Mr. Longfellow's poems. For instance, the one indicating "The Rivalry of the Poets" wear a feather. To the person guessing the prize, many of the poems have been set to music, and a short program of songs would be enjoyable. Serve the simplest of refreshments.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: When an out of town team was here to play basketball we became acquainted with two of the young men. Upon leaving they asked us for our addresses, so that they might send us a card. Although we knew them to be perfectly respectable, we did not give them our addresses. Do you think that we did right?

B. AND Y. Z.

It was wise not to give the boys your addresses, because most likely they would not have written. It is usually "out of sight, out of mind" with such new acquaintances.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two orphan girls, nineteen and twenty-one. Our brother is going to be married, and so we will have to leave the farm on which we live, having no home to go to. We have married brothers and sisters, but they have families and so we would not like to go to live with them. It seems to us that we should have outsiders come to live with us. Would you advise us to go to school to fit ourselves for a position? We have had only grammar school education.

TWO LONELY ORPHAN GIRLS.

Take a room with a respectable family, and fit yourselves for work by studying stenography or book-keeping at a business college.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please give me a recipe for ginger snaps?

M. G.

One large cup butter and lard mixed, one large cup sugar, one large cup molasses, one-half cup water, one tablespoon ginger and cinnamon, one teaspoon soda. Roll into thin balls, stiff with flour. Roll very thin. Bake in hot oven. Will make 90 snaps.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of eighteen years, and I am keeping company with a boy of seventeen. He has told me that he loves me, but I do not know whether I should marry him or not. He has such diabolical eyes that they seem to show that he is not meaning what he says. Could you tell me what to do?

DOT.

A boy of seventeen is too young to speak of love. Try to keep him from it if you can. He probably means what he says in spite of his diabolical eyes; one of his age is not usually fooling off that subject.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man twenty-four years old and anxious to have an attractive girl to go with, but I am too bashful to get one. What shall I do?

G. L. M.

Get some friend to introduce you to a girl. And then forget yourself long enough to ask her to go somewhere—for instance, to an entertainment or the theater.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: If a crowd of girls go out skating and some strange boys ask to skate with them, should the girls do it?

BLUE EYED BABY.

No. It would be unwise.

Glimpses of Married Life

"Muriel dear: Tell me what you did to poor Joe Morse when he was down there Thanksgiving time. He is not like the same fellow. It is strange to say poor Joe, referring to a young man who is so rich in this world's goods as he is, but it is the only adjective that applies."

"After his visit in October he came back all of energy, he shut himself up with a stack of books, and the fair sex loved him no more. But this time—this time all the energy he has actually got out of his old occupation of making love to the school."

"No, that is not fair to him to say that, but he certainly has called on her and taken her out in his new machine. My! but she is crazy about it, or him, or both. It is like the irony of fate to make every girl crazy about him, except the one he wants. Or is that the reason he wants her because she is not within reach?"

"You certainly have got me curious to know how the thing is to end. You would be my neighbor, and mightily pleased I was about the way things were going; but now—Write and tell me the latest in the Fisk-Morse romance."

"Ever your loving friend,"

"JENNIE THORN."

Muriel read the letter and, dropping it in her lap, sat looking out across the fields of snow at the unassuming red in the west. The spine of the church where her father used to preach stood out against the sunset and the fir tree in front was laden with soft new snow. The letter made her feel very lonely. Only a short time ago, she was thanking her for her hospitality, had come from Joe since his visit. Had she been too hard on him, on herself?

"Oh, I had to know I could trust him, and how else could I be sure except by setting him a difficult task and holding him to it. I did think he was in earnest when he promised to say no more of love for a year, and believed he would keep his word. Then after we had been good friends for a little more than a month to his home break over was disappointing. The letter course I do not love him, but I miss his jolly letters. Now he

"Here's a telegram for Miss Fisk," the messenger boy at the school-room door held a yellow envelope in his hand. Muriel's hand shook as she read: "Joe Morse is not expected to live. Come."

The dismissal of the children and the journey were like circumstances of a dream. Mrs. Thorn met her at the station, and through frosty air Muriel heard the history of the events that led up to the sickness.

"You see," explained Mrs. Thorn, "he had arranged to take Miss Chapman for an auto ride. There was a little snow on the ground, but the roads were good and, as she said, buttoned in the machine behind the curtains they could not feel the wind. They went to Rockport, ten miles

Household Hints

SIMPLE HOME REMEDIES.

For Sore Throat—Equal parts alcohol, listerine, peroxide, dilute with little water, gargle every hour. The remedy is made by the boy or child specialist in Chicago Michael Reeve hospital.

For Stomach Trouble—Drink a cup of hot water with one teaspoon molasses or brown sugar, lump of lard large as hen's egg, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon soda (one egg may be added, but is not necessary), enough graham flour to make stiff batter that will not run. Have molds greased (pound baking powder can make good ones), pour in batter about half full and steam two hours, or until a fork inserted in mixture will not adhere. Take cans out, place in oven to dry and crust top, then wrap cans in wet cloth and leave a while when they should turn out without sticking.

Light Corn Bread—One-half gallon bread sponge, one quart corn meal scalded, cooled and added to sponge, one cup sugar, one cup lard, salt. Mix to stiff dough with wheat flour. When raised, make four loaves, let rise, bake slowly about 1 1/2 hours.

UP-TO-DATE RECIPES.

Beefsteak and Oysters—Broil steak, usual way. Put one quart oysters with very little of the liquor into stewpan on fire; when it comes to a boil, take off steam, stir in three ounces butter mixed with tablespoon of sifted flour; let boil one minute until thickens, pour over steak. Serve hot.

Maple Custard—Put five table-spoons maple sugar in agate nan on stove, stir constantly until like sirup. Stir in one egg, one egg white, six eggs, one-half cup granulated sugar, one quart milk, vanilla or any flavoring. Pour custard on sirup with hot, not pan in dripping pan with hot water, and bake as usual. When cold invert on deep platter or dish.

Brown Bread—First method: When your sponge for fruit cake is NOW enough for mixing, have in another pan about a quart of graham flour; add to it one-half cup sugar or molasses, lump of lard large as hen's egg, a little salt, about a pint of bread sponge and enough warm milk or water to make stiff as ordinary bread. Then mold in one large or three small loaves and let rise to top of pan and bake as any bread. Second method: One and one-half pints buttermilk, one-third cup molasses or brown sugar, lump of lard large as hen's egg, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon soda (one egg may be added, but is not necessary), enough graham flour to make stiff batter that will not run. Have molds greased (pound baking powder can make good ones), pour in batter about half full and steam two hours, or until a fork inserted in mixture will not adhere. Take cans out, place in oven to dry and crust top, then wrap cans in wet cloth and leave a while when they should turn out without sticking.

THE DISCONTENTED TORTOISE.

One day a little Tortoise while crawling on the ground, Stopped in his tracks and shook his head, and gave a sigh profound. Said he to himself, "I am a slowpoke, and it is most provoking to have people call me slow."

"I'd like to have adventure," and he sadly shook his head, "But I crawl and live inside this silly shell instead. If only I could be a Fox, how happy would I be. His must be an exciting life and full of fun," said he.

A Fairy heard his wish and said, "All right, I'll let you be a little Fox, but if you get in trouble, don't blame me!" She touched him with her fairy wand, and lo! the slowpoke was gone. That Tortoise turned into a Fox, and started in to run.

And as he ran he said, "This is the way I like to go; I guess if people saw me now they would not call me slow." Just then he saw a pack of hounds coming down the hill, and at the sight this little Fox turned positively ill.

"Those dreadful hounds will capture me, I know it very well! Why did I ever wish to leave my cozy little shell? Now I am lost! And as he said this and as he'd given up all hope he found He was a Tortoise once again, a-crawling on the ground.

Said he, "On sober second thought I find it's just as well That I should keep my peace of mind by living in my shell. And furthermore I've changed my mind about my speed; It's more important to go far than fast; it is, indeed!"

FIFTH AVENUE SHOPS ARE ALL DOLLED UP

Description of Lustrous Gowns Leads One to Think of Childhood Books.

(By Margaret Mason.)

Will you dress yourself like a little Bopeep? And copy her setup exclusive of sheep? Or will you, preference, dress like sweet, Lorna Doone In tight silken bodice and buckled silk hose? Or panniered powdered Colonial Dame In petticoat quilted will you do the same? Now these aren't suggestions for some costume ball But latest Spring fashions for one and for all These period dresses for nineteen fifteen Are simply the latest of Fashion, I ween.

New York, Feb. 19.—The Fifth Avenue shop windows all dolled up in their sensy Spring models look like nothing in the world so much as the display windows of those funny little costume shops that hire out the makings of a dashing cavalier, a Louis Quinze court lady, a Spanish senorita or a ballroom spirit for a night of carnival or masque.

Positively one little model of azure silk blooming in pink roses has a tight bodice of the silk laced in front with a silken cord and deep panniers edged with silken quilt and topped up over a short petticoat of silk lace and net with single pink roses. It is exactly such an appropriate costume as little Bopeep always wears to tend her sheep between the covers of an edition de lux of Mother Goose.

In this instance little Bopeep has found her sheep in the strong of modern made and muttons who follow the fashions like a pack of wild sheep and will don this stage like creation with perfect sangfroid for present day wear.

Another creation in lustrous twilight silk in a soft old blue tone has a tight bodice and deep panniers edged with silken quilt and topped up over a short petticoat of silk lace and net with single pink roses. It is exactly such an appropriate costume as little Bopeep always wears to tend her sheep between the covers of an edition de lux of Mother Goose.

tight elbow sleeves which are also cut in the tab effect of the wall of Troy. Folds of gold colored silk net fills in the low cut bodice and forms full undersleeves down to the wrists.

Dolly Varden herself could not have found more fitting attire than the flowered frock of pink tulle and with the tight bodice the full over skirt looped up with black velvet loveknots over a pleated petticoat of plain pink tulle and a fichu or kerchief of finest lace edged net about the neck.

The tight fitting boned bodice laced down the front in peasant fashion with the short Empire waists for supremacy, but even with the short waist line going to do about it will be always voluminously full and in many instances actually held out with a bit of boning around the hem.

The draped up overskirts and pannier effects are simply an evolution of the long straight Russian tunic catching up itself with garlands and bows and incidentally catching up with the insatiable fashionable desire for something a bit new.

As it does, every Spring tulle is flaunting its soft yet crisp folds in all the smartest frocks and especially in those fanciful period styles it is most usable.

The hats to be worn with the period dresses are equally picturesque and fanciful. Flapping shepherdess leghorns, rose wreathed and adorned with black velvet streamers, tiny close fitting Victorian bonnets, trimmed high in nodding trich plumes and tied under dimpled curls with ribbons of satin or velvet, like La Tosca.

Tired Women Say Nothing Like Maté

Tired mothers and weary housekeepers after indulging in a cup of Woodley's Maté, feel refreshed and at the same time have their physical condition improved, for its tonic, strength-giving and soothing qualities relieve the nervous system.

Maté will do more to drive away that tired, worn out feeling and restore the nerves than any beverage that can be taken—and with the satisfaction of knowing that there are no injurious after effects.

Experience is proving that the people of the United States drink Maté just as the South Americans do—not only because it is healthful and delicious, but for the delicious tang and delightful taste. It is fast growing in favor in this city and is reported a steadily increasing sale, the more Maté one drinks the better he or she likes it.

HOOT!

GRRR!

Useless.

"Women should dress as attractively for breakfast as they do at other meals," said a lecturer, "if they would keep the love of their husbands."

"What's the use?" spoke up a wife of experience. "Our husbands can't see us over the tops of their newspapers anyhow."

Faces As Fair As An Orchid

Are Possible When Stuart's Calcium Wafers Are Used After Meals to Clean Up Skin Eruptions and Discolorations.

When a face is covered with blotches, liver spots, pimples, blackheads, etc., Stuart's Calcium Wafers will act like some magical charm. However, there is nothing magical about them. They are nature's own way of cleansing the human blood and preventing it from filling the surface of the body—the skin—with pimples and little skin eruptions.

"With a Face as Fair as a Day in June."

The abolishing of all skin disorders must begin with the blood. Lotions, salves, cosmetics, etc., will do no material good. The trouble comes from within and there the remedy must be applied.

If you really desire quick action and at the same time a common sense, natural, harmless blood purifier then Stuart's Calcium Wafers is this remedy.

The correct and best blood purifier known to science is—Calcium Sulphide. This great cleanser is contained in proper quantities in Stuart's Calcium Wafers and that is why all blood troubles and skin blemishes rapidly disappear after their use.

An unsightly and pimply face due to impure blood is one of the most disgusting sights one can see, and yet all about us, upon the streets, in the theater, when traveling, etc., we see these horrible results.

There is no need for this condition if you will take Stuart's Calcium Wafers daily and keep all salves, lotions, cosmetics and other harmful preparations from clogging the pores. Every first-class druggist in this country carries Stuart's Calcium Wafers, which are pleasant to take, harmless, and may be obtained for 50 cents a box. A small sample package will be mailed free by addressing P. A. Stuart Co., 175 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

"To-Day," a Leaf From Life, Frankly Reveals Conditions of Clothes Mania In New York

By ADA PATTERSON.

THESE are four reasons why "To-Day," which will shortly be seen here, stands shoulder to shoulder with the most successful production of recent seasons on the American stage, and you will do well if you send every carping high-brow, every European visitor full of criticism and anxious to vent it, whom you know, to see "To-Day." They may go to find fault, but they will stay to admire and to revise their opinion of the quality of American acting.

A second claim to the attention it has received and is receiving from the public is that it is a drama of rushing action that pleases all save ascetic playgoers. Things happen in it, happen tumultuously and surprisingly, continue to happen until the final curtain leaves the auditor tense and, mentally at least, gasping.

That play has a good claim to be worthy drama that is a leaf out of life. "To-Day" is. It is useless to play the ostrich to our social conditions. When we blind ourselves to the fact that womanhood is sometimes bought and sold for clothes we are willfully blind. I could tell you several stories of women as clothes mad as Lily Wagner and several plays under the direction of a medical society. If there were a vast organization for relieving the famine half of humanity of the menace of the clothes mania that society would give its hearty endorsement to "To-Day." In the case of misguided Lily Wagner, her husband killed her to cure her of the craze that had soiled her life, but seeing "To-Day" and thinking about it will suggest a less dramatic cure.

One of the chief problems of everyday life in the cities and in many small communities is how to induce women to dress according to their incomes. Talk to any thoughtful dressmaker and she will tell you, unless you show unmistakable signs of the mania yourself, that the grip of clothes upon her patrons is appalling. Although earning her living and sometimes a fortune in dressing women prettily, she herself deprecates the waste of ill considered dressing—the waste in money, in interest, in sanity, for seeing things out of their proportion is insanity. She will tell you that there are women to whom clothes are the science and art of life. They care for nothing else, think of nothing else. They are possessed by velvets, obsessed by chiffons. A moderate liking for pretty gowns and hats and wraps is entirely normal. It is in its simple, natural form an expression of a woman's sense of beauty and fitness. But it is only one of the interests that make up a woman's life. A simple, well thought out wardrobe is within the means of most women. It was within Lily Wagner's. But she cared inordinately for handsome gowns. The sight of one mounted to her brain and befuddled it as the fumes of wine befuddle the drunkard. Beginning as a pretty girl with an average interest in dainty apparel, the liking grew into an obsession. It became a monster that destroyed her.

Watching the swift unfolding of the tragedy, the cure is suggested by the sight of the heroine in her home. Lily in the silk frock she has bought, but not paid for, jars the simple atmosphere of the honest home. It recalled what one of New York's cleverest and most popular clubmen said to me, "To meet some women outside and then in their homes is an eye opener." It was a comment on the snobbery and hypocrisy of twentieth century living. A woman's wardrobe should rise no higher than the level of her home. If her gown is finer than her abode the difference is an ill omen of that woman's future. Her home, as a rule, is no better than she can afford, nor should her clothes be.

The cure? Yes, "To-Day" is a constructive play and offers a remedy. Lily is shown as idle, as allowing her mother-in-law—a patient, lovable mother-in-law, by the way—to do all the work of their little household, while she sits "thinking of heaven knows what." There is the remedy. Lily might have learned to shop intelligently and to make her own clothes or most of them. So she might have filled her closets with frocks that were pretty and suitable, and by such simple means the awful tragedy of her life would have been averted.

"To-Day" is a moral play. That play is a moral one which shows the stunner suffering the penalty of his sin. Lily Wagner died for her love of clothes. Her fate clears the vision of every woman in the audience as to the true value of clothes in a well ordered life.

ELEANOR MILLER IN "TO-DAY."

Mrs. Garland in "To-Day," and who go to hideous lengths to supply themselves with fine linen.

"Impossible!" you exclaim. But you are as foolish as though you were to place your hands over your ears while an "L" train is grinding by and say, "There is no noise." Such events as culminated in the death of the vain, selfish wife at her husband's torturing hands do happen in New York and are probably more frequent than in any of the lesser cities because here the clothes madness has reached its height. Midwinter in New York—"the market time and market place for women who sell themselves to fill their wardrobes."

Unwelcome as is the truth, we who look open eyed at metropolitan life know that the conditions portrayed in "To-Day" are not impossible. Nor are they exaggerated. "To-Day" is a transcript of a kind of life that is not uncommon and that is not decreasing. The play is a clinic on clothes madness. Medical lectures on the disease of a patient while the patient is present may be unpleasant, but they are necessary. They give the medical students who attend them light on how to treat such cases. Students of the theme of the betterment of the race have seen

Marguerite Clark in "The Crucible" on Monday.

Following her first triumphant appearance in motion pictures, in the little role of "Wildflower," the fascinating and irresistible Marguerite Clark is again presented on the Famous Players-Paramount program in "The Crucible," the pathetic story of a soul's ordeal in the melting pot of suffering, from which fiery furnace it emerges unscathed, and strengthened by its agonies.

In this powerful five part production, Marguerite Clark portrays the role of Jean Farnshaw, at first boyhood and tomboy, unjustly condemned to a reformatory, but who later triumphs over the shame of her imprisonment and the sordid corruption of her environment, returning good for evil to those who worked havoc with her life. How she is rewarded for her long struggle against evil and despair by the attainment of a wonderful love is vividly unfolded in this unusually strong photoplay.

The development of this subject differs greatly from the plot of "Wildflower," in which Marguerite Clark made her debut before the motion picture camera, providing many op-

CARL RASK FALLS DEAD

AT COMMERCIAL HOTEL

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Evansville, Feb. 19.—Carl Rask, aged 57, and for many years cobbler at the Economy store on Third street, fell out of his chair in his room at the Commercial hotel last evening, dying instantly of heart failure. He was a Swede, and a member of the Woodmen of the World, which organization has taken charge of the body. A delegation has gone to Beloit to locate relatives, where it is understood a casket will be taken. The Woodmen will have charge of the funeral.

Evansville, Feb. 19.—Mesdames Clyde Courtier and Ervin Cox entertained at a miscellaneous shower yesterday afternoon for Miss Cora Young, at the home of Mrs. Courtier's mother, Mrs. W. R. Patterson. The house was prettily decorated in honor of Washington's birthday with flags and bunting, and over the center of the table hung a branch from a cherry tree with cherries and "Washington's Little Hatchet." The afternoon was spent in playing progressive peanuts, Mrs. Charles Doolittle winning the pretty china plate, which was the winner's reward. Dainty refreshments were served. The guest of honor received some very beautiful linen, cut glass and silverware.

Mrs. and Mrs. Clarence Baker entertained Saturday evening a birthday dinner for the latter's father, S. J. Baker. Covers were laid for twelve. The evening was very enjoyable spent in cards and music.

Miss Margaret Miller entertained about twenty-five friends at cards Wednesday evening. All report a pleasant time.

What Is Sin?

By REV. PARLEY E. ZARTMANN, D.D.
Secretary of Extension Department
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—The crown is fallen from our head; wee unto us that we have sinned.—Lam. 5:16.

Sin is not a popular word in the modern vocabulary, nor a popular theme in many pulpits, for there are so many sinners in the modern congregation who object to the preacher dealing with things so near home. But let us consider four of the definitions which the Bible gives of sin; in the light of these may we see ourselves and seek him who knows the way out—"A God on a cross, that is all my theology."

Unrighteousness.
1. All unrighteousness is sin, I John 5:7. This is the most comprehensive term, and in the Bible is placed in opposition to "truth." (Rom. 2:13.) God is true, and anything which departs one hair's breadth from that standard is unrighteousness, or sin. Therefore, in this definition we have to do with sin as a state of the soul, the original purpose of which was to be a visible perfection of the mind of God. Man was to glorify God in his body, soul and spirit, but, alas, what a failure there has been; and this failure is sin. Man has failed to hit the aim or object of his being. His body is sinful, his mind is diseased, his soul is warped by sin. "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God." Even our "righteousness" is as filthy rags. "In this sense sin is 'any lack of conformity to the will of God.'"

Transgression.
2. Sin is the transgression of the law. (I John 3:4.) From the state of the soul we pass to the overt act. In the days of the dispensation of conscience and before the giving of the law, sin was against the character of God. It was unrighteousness, or ungodliness, and not, strictly speaking, transgression; and yet, there was sin, because death came, which is the wages of sin, the result of Adam's sin, disobedience to a positive command. But when the law has come, when the commandment has been given, then sin passes from the unrighteousness to positive transgression. God has put down a line, and by deliberate choice man steps over the line—transgresses—and becomes a sinner by commission—or "violation of the will of God."

You say you do not sin, you are doing the best you can. Yes, but you have a very low idea of sin. Bring your crooked life, which seems so good to you, side by side with the straight line of God's sinless life and his holy law, and you must cry out, "God be merciful to me the sinner." You may look good to yourself, you may appear good to your neighbors, but in God's sight you belong to the wicked. Think of your many sins against God—lack of perfect love, some idol in your heart, neglect of his Sabbath, hateful or angry feelings, lack of forgiveness or apology, misrepresentation, falsehood, deceit, slander, repeated refusal to obey some clear command of God—say, do you not need to cry out, "Unclean, unclean?"

Omission.
3. To him that knoweth to do good and doeth it not, it is sin. (James 4:17.) Many a man defends himself because he is not an outbreaching sinner, he does not commit any flagrant crime, he is outwardly decent and moral. But what about God's estimate of you? "Can lookest on the outward appearance, but God looketh on the heart." Does that man have the love of God in his heart? Does he love the Word and prayer? Does he serve his fellows unselfishly? If not, and he knows all these things, he is a sinner. Refuse to use medicine when you are sick, and you will die, and that without the use of the knife or poison. When we sit alone with our consciences we find sins of omission to be a large item in the account against us.

Unfaith.
4. Whosoever is not of faith is sin. (Rom. 14:23.) Here we enter the domain of questions of conscience, the things which may be right for others, but which would be sin in us; for there is a difference between things wrong in themselves and things wrong under certain circumstances. This question of conscience was raised in Paul's day about the eating of meat which had been offered to idols and afterwards offered for sale in the markets of the city. Paul says that every man is to give an account of himself unto God, and sets forth the principle that if anything seems to you to be sinful and wrong, then for you to do such a thing is sin in you. In this category must be placed questionable amusements, etc., and Paul says: "Let not your good be evil spoken of." Is it happy in he that condemneth not himself in that thing which he alloweth. And he that doubteth is condemned if he eat, because he eateth not of faith: for whatsoever is not of faith is sin."

First Quarter Lesson VIII. I Samuel 1:1-18, February 21, 1915.
The Death of Eli and His Sons.
(The Story.)

Our only view of Eli, judge and priest of Israel, is in the period of his eclipse. It is manifestly unfair to judge his whole career by the incident which occurred when he was a centenarian. In the forty years in which he occupied the supreme civil office of his nation the probability is that he governed justly. Of his personal and official sanctity as the chief of the Church there can be no suspicion. No shade of vice toward Samuel appears, although he could not but see that the youth was appointed to supplant him. His magnanimity under the circumstances was fairly phenomenal. The supreme wisdom in the training of this child of destiny also ought to offset his failure as tutor of his own sons. He deserved his name, Eli (high), for his motives were lofty and his conduct official conduct unimpeachable. It has been humorously said that if Eli could only bring action for libel against the commentators he could collect heavy damages. His sons took advantage of their father's great age and infirmity. They were tyrannical, grasping, and drunken, a manifest misfit in an office calling for sanctity and self-control. The fact that the central power on which the very continuity of the State depended was irreparably weakened and the whole people demoralized toward the enemy's opportunity. The Philistines were quick to avail themselves of it. After their first defeat, the Israelites thought of a device which would bring about a more certain consideration. It spelled still greater ruin for them, as they would have known if they had stopped to think. Eli was superannuated, Hophni and Phinehas were dull, and with determination to scent the danger, the Philistines did not afford a more striking example of blind dependence upon a mere palladium as when the ark of God was brought to the sanctuary at Shiloh. The action was precipitate. The question was not so much as raised whether the device had the divine approval. With the coming of the sacred token came an utterly false security, which expressed itself in a mighty shout which made the very earth ring. . . . That sudden cry was a challenge to the Philistines, which was accepted at once. Their destiny turned on that battle. Defeat meant slavery for them! The ark was taken. "The holiest temple was in unholy hands. Even the awful slaughter, which included Eli's recalcitrant sons, seemed a small circumstance in comparison. . . . Evil tidings ran swiftly that day. The sack-clothed courier did not need to cry his news. The sign spoke! . . . How different the cry of the city from that of a few hours before. That was the vainglorious anticipation of victory. This was a nation's misere.

. . . It shows where Eli's heart was. It had been trembling for the ark ever since that shrine had been so hastily carried away. Not defeat nor even death of his sons, but capture of the ark by infidel and profane hands—that is what killed the venerable priest of Israel. At mention of the ark, Eli, seated on his judicial throne, placed, as custom was, at the city gate, fell backward as if struck by lightning. His heart was broken before his neck was broken!"

The Teacher's Lantern.
The Bible presents parental responsibility impressively. Consider Eli as we may, the fact remains that he failed with his sons. The cataclysm of war in which it all ended is a danger signal. . . . Smiles, in his "Self-Help," gives a list of ministers' sons who have distinguished themselves in the annals of England: Among naval heroes, Drake and Nelson; in literature, Colston, Young, Playfair, and Bell; in art, Wren, Wilson, and Wilkie; in literature, Addison, Thomson, Goldsmith, Coleridge, and Tennyson. Quote this list, which could be greatly enlarged, to any who may be inclined to hold up Eli's sons as samples of ministers' sons to-day! . . . That Hophni and Phinehas grew up under the best influences of their day, in an environment and atmosphere of sanctity, only proves that in the ultimate analysis every one makes his own character, be it good or bad. . . . Blind dependence upon a symbol, but none surer than the Israel dreamed that that chest of acacia wood, overlaid with gold and silver, with golden cherubim, could actually reverse the issues of war, although the warriors utterly lacked the substance for which the symbol stood. . . . A sign is only significant when it stands for something. In this instance the thing signified was absent. The ark was harmless to their foes and helpless for themselves. . . . The cross worn by the bosom is a travesty unless the wearer has the spirit of self-sacrifice for which the cross stands. . . . There is a world of difference between the use of forms and formalism in religion. Forms are the rounds in a ladder. We mount them for the sake of rising to communion with God. They are fairly glorious. That is their proper use. The formalist, on the other hand, merely runs up and down to display his dexterity. He is a sort of sacred gymnast. No arrives nowhere. That is the misuse of forms. . . . So the Israelites did not use the ark; they misused it! That golden chest was the throne of God. Unseen, he sat upon the throne of the cherubim, his feet resting on the golden lid, the mercy seat. These were the "feathers" with which God "covered" those who came to him in penitence and with faith in his personal nearness, his imminence. These were the "wings" which insured safety, so that he who abided under them could trust and have perfect peace.

Favorite Chapters of the Bible and Why

(A memory meeting.)
The test is not that certain scripture pleases us with its sound, like the music of choice bells, or that there is felicity and grandeur of composition in it. The proof is that it nourishes the soul; that it is bread of heaven, water of life, mantle of salvation, panoply for war, storehouse, fountain, wardrobe, arsenal, all in one. This is what takes the Bible out of the category of books and makes it "The Book!" Book of God! God of Books! On one page is the ideal character; on the next, the power of heaven; here Jesus as the soul's working model; there a string of miniatures, the world-heroes in cameo; here a vade mecum for youth; there the funerals of common law; here a song; there a prayer; here the octave of beatitudes. Golden lamp! Mercy took you down off the everlasting throne.

According to this party, a certain South Janesville fire engine, which had been in the city for two or three days. This particular morning he came to work and evidently suffered a chill. He backed up to the door of a building and warm. In some manner the seat of his pants became aflame. The reserves and the bucket brigade were called out to extinguish any physical damage was suffered.

A New Step in Railway Sanitation.
There are many things tolerated in this world only because no satisfactory remedy has been proposed. Railroad and steamboat officials have long been interested in the discovery of some means for the sanitary disposal of the sewage from trains and vessels. As handled at present, this sewage constitutes a serious menace to the public health, since its promiscuous discharge into the watershed crossed by a train or the fresh body of water traversed by a steamer may sow broadcast the seeds of an epidemic of waterborne disease, such as typhoid fever or dysentery. Fully realizing that no improvement in the present conditions would be possible until some practical measure had been suggested, the United States public health service has been at work for some time on this problem. A preliminary report just issued describes what is believed to be the most satisfactory remedy so far proposed.

By the installation of a very simple apparatus and the use of the oldest and best known disinfectant, heat, every railroad train and vessel can be so equipped as to sterilize at a very small cost its sewage, which, after becoming practically unobjectionable, is automatically discharged. Actual tests of a model of this apparatus show that it kills 99.9 percent of the total number of bacteria in sewage, and eliminates completely the characteristic intestinal organism, bacillus coli, regarded by sanitarians as typical of the disease-producing germs. Such a degree of sewage sterilization had not been attained before, and the studies of the public health service must therefore help in solving a difficult problem facing health authorities and railroad and steamer officials.

Fixed Audible Signals in Place of Hand Motions.

In the large freight yard of the Southern Railway company at Inman, Ga., near Atlanta, "Klaxons," horns like those used on automobiles, fixed on posts alongside the tracks, are used to give signals to the men on long strings of freight cars being pushed over the hump for distribution. In this yard the receiving trucks are about 3,000 feet long, and to insure that the signals, to start or to stop or to set back, shall be quickly understood by the engineers and by all of the brakemen, ten Klaxons are distributed at distances of about 300 feet apart. All of these noise-makers are sounded, simultaneously, by the closing of a circuit in the signal cabin, and the instructions of the man in charge of the switching are thus conveyed in unmistakable terms, simultaneously, to all concerned. This arrangement is, of course, equally efficient by day or by night and regardless of dense fog or anything which might obscure visual signals.

These signals have been in use since last March, and such satisfaction, and a similar installation is being put in at Pinley, the Southern's large new yard near Birmingham, Ala.

Canadian Northern Through to Coast.
The Canadian Northern has laid the last rail on its line from Lake Superior to the Pacific coast, the lines from the east and from the west having been connected January 2, at Basque, a village on the North Thompson river, 200 miles east of Vancouver. It will require three months more to lay the roadbed, and the official ceremony of driving a golden spike is expected to take place about May 1. This event marks what may be called the final stage of the picturesque struggle of Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann, to expand their group of local lines into a coast-to-coast railway. The

BRONCHIAL COUGHS

When the bronchial tubes are affected with that weakening, tickling cough, they need immediate and sensible treatment. The breath seems shorter because of mucous obstructions; usually fever is present and your head jars with every cough. Your chest aches and the inflammation often spreads to the lungs.

The food-tonic that has proven its worth for sixty years—is Scott's Emulsion. It drives out the cold, which is the root of the trouble, and checks the cough by aiding the healing process of the encrusted membranes. If you are troubled with bronchitis or know an afflicted friend, always remember that Scott's Emulsion builds strength while relieving the trouble.

enterprise had its birth in 1886, when Donald Mann bought the charter of the Lake Manitoba Railway & Canal company and, with Mackenzie's assistance, built and operated 125 miles of line between Gladstone, Manitoba, and a point beyond Dauphin. By rapid additions of new and old charters, gridironing the prairie country with Canadian Northern lines, reached the head of the Great Lakes, and finally passed across the ridge of Lake Superior and built lines connecting Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec. The Canadian Northern lines of today reach practically all of the important traffic-producing centers in the Dominion.

While the Northwestern, the Milwaukee and the Soo lines are petitioning the Wisconsin legislature for a fare increase from two to two and one-half cents per mile, and a counter petition in the form of a bill has been introduced to make the regular two-cent fare legal to the border line in Wisconsin on interstate trips, the railroad commissions of Iowa, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Arizona, Colorado, New Mexico and Nebraska have joined together in sending a petition to the interstate commerce commission asking a suspension of traffic pending a general advance in interstate passenger rates which the railroad companies contemplate making effective March 1. These latter named states have united to fight the increase. The matter is being watched with interest locally.

A national depression in railroad stock shipments is being felt just at the present, according to those who have made an inspection of conditions throughout the country. The desire on the part of numerous systems to acquire additional rolling stock is indicative to a boom contemplated by the roads, and that of a ten-round match here last night. Coffey weighed 202 pounds—twenty pounds more than his opponent. At right to the jaw caused Sullivan to take a count of five in the sixth round, and Coffey refused to hit him when he saw that Sullivan was unable to defend himself.

COFFEY STOPS SULLIVAN IN THE SIXTH ROUND OF A TEN ROUND CONTEST

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
New York, Feb. 19.—Jim Coffey, the Dublin giant, stopped Jack (Twin) Sullivan of Boston in the sixth round

Benney Leonard and Patsy Cline, both New Yorkers, fought ten fast rounds, with Leonard taking the honors in eight of them. Each weighed 128 pounds.

MORE THAN ONE THOUSAND MEASURES IN LEGISLATURE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Feb. 19.—As a result of the grand rush in the assembly the last day open for introduction of bills, there were 396 bills introduced, bringing the total for the session to approximately 700 so far in the session. This record would indicate that the number finally entered on the list before adjournment will be materially less than two years ago when the grand total and record breaker was 1,106.

In the senate some 150 bills were offered, and those added to the 200 formerly introduced bring the total in that body to 350, but little more than half the record of 1913, when 601 was the final number. The total in the senate and assembly in 1913 was 1,797. The record so far for the present legislature is a total of approximately 1,050, or some 747 short, so far, of two years ago. Of course there will be a large number introduced, probably 200 altogether, through committees and the other various ways that are learned as the legislative period progresses.

--And the Worst is yet to Come

Standard Remedy For Many Homes

Indigestion and constipation are two conditions closely related and the cause of much physical suffering.

The tendency to indulge one's appetite is general, so that most people suffer at some time or another from relaxation of the overtaxed organs of digestion and assimilation. A simple, pleasantly effective remedy that will quickly relieve the congestion of poisonous waste and restore regularity, is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin, sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a mild, pleasant, laxative- and digestant, absolutely free from opiates or narcotic drugs and has been the standard household remedy in countless homes for many years. A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

Milton News

Milton, Feb. 19.—Prof. J. A. James, representative of the extension department of the College of Agriculture of the state university, visited Milton last Thursday and arranged for the college of agriculture and college authorities for holding a three day farmers' short course session in the college auditorium Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, March 22, 23 and 24.

The program, which is nearly completed, looks very attractive, some of the best talent in the university faculty being scheduled to appear, and the topics will be of supreme interest to farmers, and their wives as well, and the townspeople will also not be forgotten.

As yet the university has arranged to furnish courses of instruction only upon the request of colleges of the state, and this one comes to Milton through a formal application from the college.

This will be a rare opportunity for the people of this community and everybody should mark the dates with a red cross and let nothing else conflict.

ACCOUNTS OF DUTCH REFUGEE CAMP GIVEN

Four Villages Arranged With Huts Accommodate Nine Thousand Belgians Whose Homes Were Destroyed.

(Correspondence Associated Press.) Nunspeet, The Netherlands, Feb. 19.

The life of the nine thousand Belgian refugees who are enjoying the hospitality of the Dutch authorities in a vast camp here, is an interesting side light of the war. The camp, which is one of the numerous similar concentration centers spread about Holland, is situated on a sandy plain surrounded by pine-woods renowned for their efficacy in the treatment of incipient tuberculosis. It consists of four villages formed of capitally arranged and commodious huts, in which each family has a chamber. All have board floors and are illuminated with electric light. In each of the villages are large workrooms for different trades, washhouses, baths and a children's recreation shed, all provided for their occupancy.

The camp is under a Dutch military guard and besides the company of 150 soldiers a small detachment of county police and Belgian gendarmes patrols the villages to keep order. Tools necessary to all the ordinary trades are provided and several small huts in each village are fitted up as shops. The men make or mend all their own shoes and clothes, while the women do sewing.

The refugees take in the deerskins of the huts, which are separated by wide tracts of ground. Each shack has received its name and the differences in the two Belgian races—Flemish and Walloon—can be marked at once by the inscriptions in Low Dutch or French. A small proportion of the people are bi-lingual, but 6,000 of them speak only Flemish and the other 3,000 only French.

Around the shacks, notwithstanding the sandy soil, some of the men have laid out little patches of garden. The authorities distribute daily premiums to those obtaining the best results in neatness and cultivation.

In one place an excellent imitation of the Dutch lion is laid out in sand and grass turf from the woods.

Four priests and 34 sisters are engaged in the religious and educational work of the camp, and besides these there are men and women among the refugees who possess a high grade of education and who give their services as readers to the schoolrooms after nightfall. A benevolent resident of the district also has presented a moving picture apparatus for entertainment.

Sickness among the refugees has been little considering the number of people and the circumstances under which they were brought together in a spot where no drainage or sanitary arrangements existed before their arrival. Only one adult has died since the camp was formed and that was a woman of over eighty years of age. Among the children, a number have died of measles.
